KALYAN: The residents of landslide-prone areas in Netivli Tekdi have been told to vacate the place.

The Kalyan-Dombivli Municipal Corporation (KDMC) has initiated precautionary measures for the only landslide-prone area in the city after heavy rains last week.

During monsoon, huge boulders roll down on the houses, killing or injuring residents. There are around 3,000 structures on the hill, housing 12,000 residents.

Like previous years, the KDMC has started serving notices to residents living in huts on the hill. However, despite continuous warnings from officials, the residents do not vacate the area, KDMC said.

"We have served notices to 100 families who are living in extremely dangerous condition. In the notice, we have asked them to find a safer place and relocate at the earliest," said Bhagaji Bhangare, ward officer.

"However, residents have not moved yet despite the warning. We will serve notices to more residents in the coming days," he said.

The KDMC conducts a survey of the hill every year before monsoon to check its condition.

"We highlight the dangerous portions of the hill to the residents who live there and convince them to find another place. But they refuse to shift," added Bhangare.

Residents claimed that the civic body is neglecting their demand of providing an alternative housing projects but fails with small houses.

"KDMC sanctioning projects but fails with small houses leave the city and go find cheaper accommodation because we have been here for several years," said Usmaan Shaikh, 45, who lives on the hill with his family. Below the hill, shops, garages, tea stalls have also cropped up, mostly run by those from the hill.

The KDMC said it will provide an alternative housing for the residents because they had occupied the hill illegally.

"On a temporary basis, we have asked the residents to move to nearby schools which are heavily used," Bhangare said. The Netivli hill is located
